Back With Tories Or Up With Labor, Attlee Warns

LONDON STOCK MARKET BOOMS

LONDON (AP) — A boom developed on the London stock market today as political leaders converged on the city to draft plans for the Oct. 25 national election. Millions of pounds were added to share values in a buying rush touched off by a possibility that six years of Socialist rule by the Labor government might be nearing an end.

Splitting Of Coalition Due, Says Minister

Special to the Times

POR ALBERNI—Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald urged Progressive Conservative party members here Wednesday night to step up their preparations for an eventual break-up of B.C.'s coalition government.

MacDonald said target of people's dissatisfaction today are Liberal members of the cabinet and there has been no criticism of the four Conservative ministers.

MacDonald was speaking to a P.C. rally.

He also said eastern steel interests are blocking development of a steel industry in B.C.

He claimed there are large deposits of 65 per cent iron ore on Vancouver Island from which shipments are now being made to Japan, but which could better be processed at home. Greater Vancouver alone could absorb the steel manufactured in B.C., he thought.

FALSE ALARM!

Smoke Pillar Worries City

Billing smoke drifting across the Victoria area today prompted numerous phone calls to the Victoria Daily Times switchboard, but anxiety about the tinder-dry southern Island was allayed when the source turned out to be a 2,000-acre forest fire blazing "out of control" 20 miles east of Bellingham, Wash.

The city of Bellingham, blanketed by smoke, was in semi-darkness today.

Meanwhile, the Washington State Forestry Office at Deming said hundreds of men were fighting the fire, which was expected to cover several thousand more acres before being brought under control.

Starting from a small blaze reported controlled Sunday on a logging operation, the fire was fanned into devastating fury by a brisk east wind that carried the flames across the Nooksack river.

No New Bulletin On King's Health

LONDON (AP)—The King, suffering from a mysterious lung ailment, was visited by his doctors again today.

The physicians stayed at Buckingham Palace just under an hour. Last night they saw the King for nearly two hours. No medical bulletin was forthcoming on either occasion.

ESQUIMALT BY-ELECTION

'Patronage Back'—Bennett; 'Coalition Arrogant'—Turner

Tempo of the Esquimalt by-election campaign stepped up Wednesday night with speakers for all the major opponents in action.

At Langford, W. A. C. Bennett, backing Cmdr. A. C. Wurtle, Independent, charged that political patronage, abolished by the first Coalition government, has now returned to the provincial scene. But he gave no details.

At Luton, Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb had a taste of fire from hecklers who tackled him on hospital insurance premiums, secondary road conditions and the latest B.C. Electric rate increase.

At nearby Metchosin, Arthur Turner of Vancouver East, supporting C.C.F. candidate Frank Mitchell, demanded defeat of the Coalition candidate as a means of "calling the arrogant government to order."

Question after question was shot at Mr. Anscomb, who spoke in support of Mayor Percy George.

"Taxes, taxes and more taxes," said one irate member of the audience. "Can you tell me how Alberta can reduce its taxes and yet have a less expensive hospitalization plan? They even have free maternity."

The minister replied that he didn't know much about the operation of the hospitalization plan here.

"The only time I have anything to do with it is when the minister of health comes to me for more money," he said. "I know it is not perfect but we are trying to improve it all the time."

HE OPPOSED PLAN

When the minister was asked if he had voted in favor of hospitalization, he bluntly told the audience that he had been against the scheme from the very first.

"I was not in favor of the way the hospitalization scheme was set up," he said. "I believed it could have been done in a different manner. But the majority ruled."

One man wanted to know why the "government" had allowed the B.C. Electric Co. to increase its electric rates.

"The B.C. Electric asked for rate increases on the grounds that it needed more money to run its transportation system in Victoria," said the man. "But the Veterans' stages could not ask the government to indirectly tax the public to operate its buses."

"Why should the people in Luxton pay for increased electric rates when they don't get any transportation service from the B.C. Electric," the questioner asked.

RATES UP TO P.U.C.

Mr. Anscomb replied rate increases were handled by the Public Utilities Commission.

"Well, who appoints the members to sit on the utilities commission?" asked another man.

"Doesn't the government appoint the members of the commission?"

Another asked when will the government eliminate curves on Sooke Road to stop accidents.

Mr. Anscomb said there wouldn't be accidents if motorists would abide by speed limits.

"I disagree," said the man. "People have been killed on the highway who drive carefully."

The minister at one point was asked if the Coalition government broke up at the next election which of the two parties would take the credit for "good works" accomplished during the past 10 years.

"We have a course of the Tories," said the minister.

Atlantic Pact Countries Pledge Stronger Co-operation For Peace

Canada Committee Member To Advance Latest Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The North Atlantic Council, brushing aside "vague and obscure" Russian peace appeals, pledged its 12-member nations today to consolidate their North Atlantic community under a three-barrelled program for advancing non-military co-operation.

Canada was named to a five-nation committee to recommend further steps which include "co-ordination and frequent consultation on foreign policy"—something Canada has been urging.

The 12 powers agreed "they will never reject any genuine move for peace but they will not be deflected from building up their defensive strength by mere empty words about peace."

The 500-word document, referred to sometimes as an "Ottawa Declaration," emerged simply as "a statement . . . regarding the North Atlantic community."

It named a committee to consider arms make recommendations to the council in three fields so as "to build up the inner strength" of the alliance.

THREE FIELDS

It was greeted as the start of long-range planning to turn the pact into something deeper and broader than a mere military alliance.

These were the three fields for long-range spade work:

1. Co-ordination and frequent consultation on foreign policy, having particular regard to steps designed to promote peace.

2. Closer economic, financial and social co-operation, in order to promote and to ensure conditions of economic stability and well-being, both during and after the present period of the defense effort, within the North Atlantic Treaty organization or through other agencies.

3. Collaboration in the fields of culture and public information.

RUSSIA NOT NAMED

"In these and other ways the council will build up the inner strength of the North Atlantic community, without duplicating the work of other international organizations which promote the same objectives," the statement said.

The statement, without naming Russia, hit out at her persistent peace campaigns, regarded by the west as insincere and cynical.

It said in part: "The persistent attempts which have been made and are being made to divide the peoples of the North Atlantic community will fail. Those who make these attempts do not understand the nature or the strength of the close ties between the free peoples of the North Atlantic community. The preservation of peace is the very essence of that community, and free discussion as to how this can best be done is a source of continuing strength."

W. H. Wright, Mines Magnate Dies In East

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—William H. Wright, 75, discoverer of the Wright-Hargreaves gold mine and one of the Commonwealth's wealthiest men, died at his home here early today.

Death was due to a persistent bronchial condition from which he had suffered for months.

Dr. Eaton Turnbull, attending physician, said the bronchial condition led to "gradual disintegration."

Funeral services will be held here Saturday with burial in Barrie Union Cemetery.

Mr. Wright is survived by a sister, Mrs. Edward Hargreaves, Barrie; two nieces and a nephew.

The English butcher boy who arrived in Canada a penniless immigrant at the age of 21, had lived in semi-retirement for many years although he held the vice-presidency of the mining company he helped establish in First World War days—before he went overseas to become Canada's millionaire private.

His fortune one was estimated to yield him an income of $2,000,000 a year.

Tough Forest Ranger Foils Keen Reporter

By TOM GOULD

Times Victoria Correspondent NANAIMO—Wednesday at 5 a.m. I went to the B.C. Forest Service office for a progress report on the forest fire threatening this city, and was told I could get a ride to the fire on a truck leaving immediately.

A TOUGH RANGER

I had been at the scene a few minutes when a hard-looking ranger came along and said "What are you doing with your hands in your pockets?"

I explained I was a reporter representing the Times, and I'd come for a story.

He asked if I had been on the night shift and I said I hadn't.

"Well, there's the water, the buckets and the stirrup pumps," he said. "Get to work."

I explained all over again I was a reporter and had to file a story to my paper.

'GET ON THAT LINE'

"You're here 'til 6 tonight, brother," he answered. "Now get on that line."

I tried to explain again that I had to get back to town.

"There is no way back," he said. "Get to work."

I got Deadlines came and deadlines went without a word from me. I even had to borrow lunch.

All I saw of the fire was water, stirrup pumps, and a lot of smoke. I saw more of the others, however. No other press and radio reporters have been allowed near the fire.

U.S. TROOPS LAND IN HELICOPTERS

History Made As Marines Take Up Position On Crest Of Rugged Hill

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP)—Twelve large helicopters today landed full-equipped United States Marine reinforcements in North Korea in the first combat helicopter landing in history.

The landing was made on the crest of a rugged hill within sight of Communist positions.

Troops from the first helicopter to hover over the landing area climbed down a rope to the top.

While these men cleared the landing ground, other helicopters flew overhead.

The helicopters carried 228 troops and 17,722 pounds of gear to the mountain top. By foot the same job would have taken two days.

Maj.-Gen. Gerald Thomas, commander of the 1st Marine Division said he attacked great importance to this type of troop movement in future warfare.

Given a big enough fleet of helicopters, he said, he could land an entire division in difficult terrain in a matter of hours.

United States warplanes today damaged three Russian-made MiG-15 jets in a series of dogfights over northwest Korea. Altogether, 49 Allied and 78 Red planes were engaged.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said there were no Allied losses.

Other U.N. troops faced withering Red mortar fire as they pushed off again in the bloody "Battle of the Hills" on the east-central front.

Clearing weather gave them badly-needed air support.

Communist troops on commanding high ground rained artillery and mortar fire at the attacking Allied infantrymen.

Elsewhere on the east-central front, Eighth Army soldiers continued local attacks against Reds dug-in on high ground.

U.N. advances also were reported on the western front. They were north of Yonchon and northwest of Chorwon.

An Allied jet photo plane was jumped by 12 Communist jets near Anju, but escaped without damage.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

POOR PATIENT!

AS ONE who has done my share of hospital visiting over the years to see various patients of my acquaintance, in the belief that such visits cheered them, I admit I was somewhat affronted to learn that there are some doctors who would ban all flowers and visits as harmful to the patients.

True, it was a Czech doctor—who said it in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia, so perhaps I shouldn't have been surprised, after all. Dr. Ota Dub, head of Prague's Municipal Hospital, in an article in the Czech paper, Lidový Noviny, declared he would like to see notices proclaiming the edict "No flowers, no food, no visits allowed" outside all hospitals in that country.

BROUGHT BED BUGS

HE ARGUED, in the same article, that visitors have a bad effect on patients' health. Moreover, he complained; they often brought bed bugs with them which it cost the state a lot of money to catch. He didn't say that the said bugs must have cost the patients a lot of discomfort, too, but I suppose that is a mere secondary consideration in a Communist state.

What also amazed me was his admission that, in the paradise which the proletarians are supposed to have attained under Communist domination, there should be room for bed bugs or pests of any kind.

ANOTHER DELUSION

I WAS under the delusion that such filthy vermin could have no place in those lands of totalitarian sweetness and light. But I was evidently looking at it in the wrong light. What I apparently fail to appreciate is that this is but another exemplification of the Soviet-inspired doctrine of share and share alike with your neighbor—even when it comes to bed bugs.

That doctor didn't give any reason—or at least the Vienna news item didn't quote it—as to why he would ban flowers. It may be that Communists don't need to "say it with flowers." They have other means of expressing their views, no doubt.

LANGUAGE OF FLOWERS

OR COULD it be that they are afraid that by "saying it with flowers" some Czechs might resort to the old sign language once associated with flowers. For example, pansies were once supposed—in English flower lore—to mean "thoughts." But a bouquet of pansies might not indicate the right thoughts between the giver and the recipient, judged by Soviet standards, and so would be suspect.

Rosemary, in flower language, connotes remembrance. But what an awful calamity if a sick Czech was thus encouraged to remember the wrong things—such as the comparatively happy, halcyon days before the Russian system took over the country? That would never do! It might accelerate any patient's pulse and temperature to a dizzy and dangerous degree, besides endangering the spirit of smug satisfaction Soviet domination is supposed to induce.

IDLE CHATTER

WHEN ASKED if visitors didn't cheer up patients, Dr. Dub gave a decided "No!" Why? Because many "politically-educated patients have to listen to their idle chatter. If the patients want intelligent conversation, they get it from the nurses who conduct political discussions with them."

So, while being doctored in Czechoslovakia today, patients are also being indoctrinated. The same nurse who injects healing medicaments into your veins injects poisonous propaganda into your mind. I wonder how patients in our democratic hospitals would react to such political prophylactics?

WASTED WORK-HOURS

ON ANOTHER score, too, the Prague hospital chief is against visitors to hospital patients. He claims they not only waste their time in doing so, but also deprive the state of valuable work hours. I don't know if that implies that, under Soviet domination, visiting hours are run on a different system from ours, but it does imply that in Communist Utopias there isn't any 40-hour, or even 48-hour, work week.

If the worker in the proletarian Paradise isn't given enough leisure time to visit his sick wife or other relative in hospital, all I can say is that the hospitals must have a hard time finding room to accommodate all the workers who perform must become patients under such a rigid, ruthless regimen.

Shipyard Union's Motion Fails To Exclude Press

A three-man delegation from the Victoria Shipyard Workers' Union Local 238 failed to win support for a motion excluding press representatives from a meeting of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council Wednesday night.

J. Kaiser, spokesman for the boilermakers' delegation, declared a news story carried in the Victoria Daily Times of Sept. 17 was "unfair."

Holding a clipping of the Times' story in his hand, he declared:

"The boilermakers feel this is an unfair attack on the part of the Daily Times and I move we exclude the press until they show a more favorable attitude toward organized labor."

The motion, seconded by another boilermaker, failed to win support from representatives of any other union. A show-of-hands vote showed three in favor of the resolution; 20 against.

Speaking on the resolution, John Aubry, representative of the Retail Clerks' Union, and C. McIlvride, of the Automotive Maintenance Workers' Union, said the press had always been fair in reporting business of the council.

"We may not always get the reports we would like to get," said Aubry, "but I feel we would

MORE ABOUT ESQUIMALT BY-ELECTION MEETINGS

would not suggest non-party government as the best thing for B.C.

"We'll deal with that issue when the general election comes," he said.

There was a barrage of questions after Cmdr. Wurtele, Mrs. Tilly Rolston, Point Grey, and Mr. Bennett had spoken.

MILK SUBSIDY

One directed to Cmdr. Wurtele sought his views on subsidies on eggs and meat, as well as on bread and milk.

"In an emergency I would advocate a subsidy on bread and milk," Cmdr. Wurtele answered. "It might be necessary to extend these subsidies."

Mr. Bennett added: "High cost of living and inflation are as dangerous as atom warfare. It is not a radical idea to consider subsidies. The Premier is against them, true, but tariffs are a form of subsidy, and so is hospital insurance."

LIQUOR PROFIT USE

Another question asked why profits of the Liquor Control Board could not be used to solve Langford's school accommodation problem. "Our children are going to school in shifts," he declared. "One shift in the morning and another in the afternoon. Why shouldn't some of those liquor profits be spent to relieve us?"

Mr. Bennett suggested help should be sought from Ottawa.

DANGEROUS GROUND

"God forbid that a sailor shouldn't be able to step ashore and get a glass of beer," Cmdr. Wurtele said. "I stand for temperance and a sane liquor act. I think it needs amendment. I don't like a place where you go for drink alone. The beer parlor should be a spot where you can go for a quiet chat with a friend, and something to eat, as well as a glass of beer."

This is a free country, Cmdr. Wurtele pursued. "But I am told that discussing this liquor question puts me on dangerous ground. I don't care whether I am or not. These are my beliefs and I stand by what I've said."

"You can't sit with a government that breaks its promises," Mrs. Rolston declared. "That's what the Coalition government did. That's why I crossed the floor. It was not a precipitate action. It was the hardest thing I ever did."

The government's stand on hospital insurance, teachers' pensions, the refusal to open the I.C.A. Act, and its salary rewards to highly-placed civil servants were points on which she condemned the administration.

"Our laws," she added, "come to us in orders-in-council. That is one-cylinder government. Who can say we have a democratic government when 11 members crack the whip and the rest fall into line? If you don't stand for something you'll fall for anything."

Mrs. Rolston referred to a statement by a member of the cabinet that if a Coalition member were returned the Island Highway construction would be accelerated.

"Blackmail," shouted a listener, and the audience applauded. Patronage, said Mr. Bennett, is rampant. It was abolished by the original Coalition government, but has come back.

"What's the use?" he asked. "fighting dictatorships abroad if we are to have them at home?"

He referred to the recent borrowing in New York of $35,000,000 by the Government.

"Do you know what it was for?" he asked.

"Travelling expenses," shouted one.

"Well," Mr. Bennett laughed, "$26,300,000 of it was to pay a bank overdraft. What a spending government!"

Turner said he was "very much amused" when he read newspaper accounts of "thundering by his majesty Herbert Anscomb" during a coalition meeting Tuesday.

Claiming that the Coalition parties are splitting, the speaker said "Anscomb would give his right arm to be Premier" then forecast that such plans will meet with disappointment.

Turner charged Premier Byron Johnson with attempting to credit the Coalition government for current industrial expansion in B.C., while it is obvious, he said, that such expansion is going on "all over the world" as a result of demands for military preparations.

The speaker claimed that progressive legislation, first suggested by the C.C.F., has been held back by the present government and its predecessors until public pressure forced it to take action, then the government takes the credit.

The youthful candidate, Frank Mitchell, took a verbal swing at Finance Minister Anscomb with reference to taxing of profits made by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co.

"Mr. Anscomb says they mustn't be taxed," he said. "Well, if we're not going to tax a firm that makes a profit of $41,000,000, then who is to be taxed?"

RAPS PUBLICITY

He criticized the government for spending money "raised from hospital insurance premiums" to buy "propaganda" advertising space in B.C. newspapers, "trying to sell us our own hospital scheme."

Mitchell said that advertising material of the Coalition parties was deliberately "playing down" the word "coalition."

"It's in such small type you can hardly see it," he said. "The Coalition government is so unpopular they're ashamed of the word. We are not trying to hide our name in small print. I am proud to be on the platform as a C.C.F. candidate."

Mrs. Laura Jamieson, former M.L.A. for Vancouver Centre, said many women, worried over the government's "lack of action in urging price controls," were turning away from the Coalition and toward the C.C.F.

She accused the government of trying to still the voices of protest from among women voters by appointing "one or two women" to high positions in the province.

"The women are too smart to be taken in by that," she maintained.

U.S. Develops Anti-Ground Force Missile

New Guided Projectile Called 'Corporal E'

WASHINGTON (UP) — The army has revealed development of a new guided missile designed to be fired from the ground against ground targets such as missile troops and installations.

Brief information about the new surface-to-surface missile, called the "Corporal E," was given to newsmen last night after a picture of the weapon was given to a picture news magazine.

The army refused to reveal any information about the new missile except the caption under the picture, which said:

"The Corporal E, a surface-guided missile, has been developed as a research instrument by the U.S. Army Ordnance. The Corporal E is the fourth missile of a series of different types developed under army supervision. It is a companion development of the 'WAC' which was the first guided missile of any type designed and built wholly in the United States."

Although the caption called it a "research instrument," reports have indicated that the missile will be designated an operational weapon.

Officials did not attach any significance to the disclosure of the new missile the day after Sen. Brian McMahon, D., Conn., urged in a Senate speech that the nation concentrate on atomic weapons rather than those of the conventional type.

The Pentagon had no comment on McMahon's statement that defense spending could be cut by $30,000,000 annually by stressing production of atomic weapons.

The picture of the Corporal E being fired into the air showed the missile to be 25 or 30 feet long. The army refused comment on the size of the weapon. The missile appeared to be pencil-thin, with a needle-like nose and stubby fins at its base.

Hunter Ballot System Wins Recognition

Victoria's unique ballot and voting system, devised by M. Frank Hunter, city clerk, and in successful operation in the city for 20 years, is the subject of a detailed article in the September issue of Civic Administration.

Mr. Hunter, who was named returning officer for Victoria in 1927, was invited to contribute the article. An editor's note states:

The system devised has been commended by civic officials, newspapers and the general public. It has been adopted by Port Alberni and the city of Alberni.

The Hunter system is simple and easily understood, as the ballots are fastened together and handed out as one. The voter sees at a glance the number and identity of the ballots as each is of a different color and size. The simplified system of counting provides for an early tally of the votes.

Single Picket For Pressure Move On Shops

A picket will be posted sometime next week outside each of two Victoria dress shops owned by Ed Mallek, John Aubry, business agents for the Retail Clerks Union, Local 279, said Wednesday.

Aubry said the union has decided on picket action against the employer because of his repeated refusal to sign a working agreement covering employees' working in Dick's Dress Shoppe, 1324 Douglas Street.

The union officer said pickets would be posted at Dick's and at Mallek's other store, Eddy's Limited, 1661 Douglas, and that the pickets would remain until a satisfactory agreement was signed.

The union was willing to settle the proposed clerks' wage increase for the first of its kind ever attempted here. It will run for three nights, doors opening at 7:

Metal Workers Get 14 Per Cent Boost

Victoria sheet metal workers are to receive a 14 per cent across-the-board wage increase under terms of a new agreement signed earlier this week. John Quissay, union official, announced today.

The pay boost is to be retroactive to Sept. 1.

While the wage clause in the new agreement will be subject to revision after one year's time, other terms of the agreement will hold for 18 months.

About 150 men, working for 12 shops here, are covered by the contract. Mechanics, under the agreement, are to receive an hourly pay boost of 24 cents, and helpers, an increase of 17½ cents.

Help Not Harm Is Aim In Treating Convicts

Prison personnel must have the type of training that fits them to help the prisoner—not harm him, Hugh Christie, University of British Columbia's newest criminology expert, said today.

"The good intentions of prison personnel are not enough," said Mr. Christie.

Two courses financed by the provincial government through the attorney-general's office and given at the University, will be designed to assist prison guards, social workers and others engaged in the correction and rehabilitation of prisoners.

"Prison inmates invariably have deep psychological problems that call for more than ordinary understanding," Mr. Christie said. "The only way to bring a prisoner back to a normal and useful life is by wise rehabilitation methods."

Both courses commence in the fall term. One in applied criminology is designed to give an insight into various criminal types and their rehabilitation without sacrificing good custody or proper law enforcement.

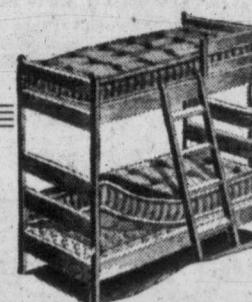

A seminar course will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the different methods of treating crime and delinquency.

Back To The People For Orders

ALTHOUGH THE LABOR GOVERNMENT of Britain still has three and a half years of its five-year term to run, Prime Minister Attlee has decided that the present time is opportune to call a general election. The move is not surprising; it has been predicted for some months now—almost, indeed, since the Socialists were returned to office in February, 1950, with a scant half dozen majority.

Since that time the administration has been forced to weather a succession of attacks by the Conservative Opposition. Votes of confidence—the loss of which would have led to immediate resignation of the government—have been survived by a hair's breadth on several occasions, with members from both sides of the House being carried from sick-beds to answer the division bells.

Government under such conditions is difficult at any time. In a tense period—domestically and internationally—such as Britain is now passing through it can become almost impossible. The issues are too critical, the need for national unity too great, to permit the adoption of important policy to be determined by the accident of relative health among the members of the temporary advantage of a snap election. Britain will therefore greet the present announcement with a measure of relief. There will be a feeling—that as expressed on a more historic occasion—"At least we know where we stand."

A second reason for Mr. Attlee's decision, if such were needed, may be found in the internal situation of the Labor Party. It has become more and more difficult in recent months for the Government to present a united face to the country. Dissension between the orthodox party members and the far-left wing has been increasingly serious. This has been so, not only because of the danger to the Government's functioning, but because the controversy hits directly to the core of important international policy.

The Prime Minister and most of his cabinet are committed to a rearmament program that is necessary for the safety not only of Britain but of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other defensive alliances of which she is a member. The left-wingers, led by Mr. Aneurin Bevan, have urged that the full resources of the country be thrown into welfare and extended socialization of the economy, with an easing of the austerity which further retirement demands. In a sense Mr. Attlee's challenge is an ultimatum to Mr. Bevan as well as to Mr. Churchill and his Conservatives. The party cannot go to the country on a divided platform and it would seem that the leftists must now either conform to the approved platform or strike out on their own.

The election should find the Conservatives ready for political battle. This is the opportunity for which they have been waiting. Mr. Churchill, indeed, is reported to have already chosen the cabinet he will call upon in the event of an election victory. It would be a victory which public opinion polls today indicate to be well within the bounds of possibility.

The Conservatives have as yet issued no new platform, although this could soon be forthcoming. Obviously, it will be difficult to reverse the socialization of industry which the Labor Government has initiated—impossible and, indeed, unlikely in some cases. So much Opposition statements already have indicated. But the controversial steel measure might still be reopened, the whole trend of nationalism could be halted in its tracks.

The repercussions of such an event, not only in Britain but in Europe, and particularly in the United States where millions of private enterprise dollars are being marshalled for overseas aid, could be tremendous. The election, called for October 25, will thus make important history whatever the result. Though the contest is forced on Mr. Attlee by circumstances, the date is his own choice. He apparently feels that his chances will not improve by waiting—a belief to which the growing restlessness of the austerity-ridden Briton gives added point.

Colombo Plan At Work

CANADIANS HAVE A BETTER understanding of the part this country is playing in the Colombo Plan following the visit of the bridges and highways mission from India and Pakistan which reached Victoria this week. Through their newspapers they have learned that Canada is host to the group and is doing what it can to assist these highly trained engineers from the sub-continent to study our techniques in public works.

Those of our citizens who have inquired into the matter will have learned, too, that the benefits from the tour have not been entirely one-sided. The representatives of the commonwealth and the republic have been able to present ideas which may aid the Canadian approach to various problems.

The Colombo Plan has been described as a program by which we of the more fortunate countries within the commonwealth can assist in raising the living standards of under-developed areas—in this case India, Pakistan and Ceylon. That is fundamentally the objective.

From our point of view it has a two-fold purpose. In the first instance it reflects the humanitarian desire to assist those who lack our advantages. With that goes a very obvious approach of enlightened self-interest. It is to our benefit to facilitate development in the areas in question not only to strengthen the sinews of the democratic world in its contest with communism, but also to encourage the raising of living standards to a point where trade may be revitalized between the assisting nations and the Colombo Plan beneficiaries to mutual profit.

Our guests will return to India and Pakistan, according to one of their spokesmen, satisfied that they will be able to do a better engineering job for their countries as a result of the information they have received here.

Undoubtedly the Canadian engineers who have met them during the tour will have received something of value in the interchange of ideas and comparison of practices.

Beyond that, the representatives of the two Asiatic countries have been, we believe, impressed by the desire of Canadians to be of assistance to them.

The friendliness which has been promoted is by no means the least asset which has been created.

It is incorrect to visualize the Colombo Plan or the visit of the present mission as an effort to buy friends. It is entirely correct, on the other hand, to see the plan and the visit as an honest reflection of Canada's desire to extend friendship to the beneficiary countries in a practical way.

It will be of additional value, too, if the recent tour has reminded Canadians of the long-range purposes of the plan—a co-operative endeavor to assist the under-developed areas to help themselves in a manner which promises reciprocal co-operation as they attain greater economic strength.

A Fraction Of The Whole

THE COMPOSITE NATURE OF THE forces to be used in defense of western Europe may be seen in the fact that while Canada's 27th Brigade, when it moves to Europe in November, will be associated with the British command, our R.C.A.F. squadrons assigned to that theatre will be grouped with United States forces. All, of course, are integrated under Gen. Eisenhower's authority as part of the Atlantic Pact force now being created.

The disposition of our troops in Korea has been similarly varied, they having been initially assigned to American sectors and later to the Commonwealth command. In this respect they will illustrate the traditional link between Britain and this continent. It would be well to ensure, however, that Canada's contributions to international forces maintain their identity despite a variety of associations. The Canadians in Korea have earned that recognition by their conduct in battle, and it is to be expected that the less active duty in Europe will find our men equally outstanding in military efficiency.

Out Of The Red In One Jump

WHEN THE GREATER VICTORIA Celebrations Association began its preparations for this year's observance of May 24, its members knew they had inherited a $4,000 deficit from the preceding year. When the 1951 financial statement was presented to the membership the other day, Chairman M. F. Hunter was able to report a surplus of $1,700.

All those who contributed to the festivities four months ago deserve some measure of appreciation for staging a worthy celebration and keeping expenses so far within their means that they were able to replace a deficit with a credit. The various committees concerned, however, would be the first to attribute this happy state of affairs to the leadership and direction given by Mr. Hunter.

He and his assistants have scored a notable achievement. In a day when a balanced budget is an accomplishment, they move a step higher into the realms of minor phenomena.

Heresy

THE UNITED PRESS REPORTS from Washington that 342 volunteer weather watchers in 18 states have checked official weather forecasts and found them 88.4 per cent correct.

This is as startling a disclosure as it is useless. Who ever heard of anyone giving a weatherman credit for such accuracy? Actually the survey is distinctly to the disadvantage of the weatherman. If he was wrong less than 12 times in 100, why did he have to predict fair weather for the picnic that broke up in the rain? Why did he have to suggest rain to drought-stricken farmers and permit them to forego irrigation tasks when the sun came out to blaze in all its fury?

Even those who weren't victims of meteorological bad guesses won't be satisfied. A weather man accurate?

Why next they'll be talking about soft-hearted mothers-in-law, competent women drivers, and taciturn barbers.

An accurate weatherman? That's as re-

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE FRENCH-SPEAKING Canadian often objects, very properly, to the advertisement which is written in French (presumably for his benefit) by an English-speaking Canadian who is totally unfamiliar with French idiom. It is an insult to the French reader. It also damages the business of the manufacturer who hired the not-too-gifted linguist. I have read a few advertisements like that myself . . . though in all fairness I must admit I have also read French-written English which is none too idiomatic.

But no speaker of French can object to the advertising of one cereal firm, at least. On the French-speaking side of a package which my misguided children have bought, I see that this cereal is dumbfounding . . . it knocks you off your feet. If that isn't French, I'd love to know what is. Me, I don't want to be dumbfounded at breakfast, though I'd not mind breakfasting with others who stayed dumb for an hour or two. Neither do I want to be knocked off my feet at that time of day, least of all by what is meant for a stomach that is my private property. Still, it's awfully French . . . so far as eating-breakfast is French at all.

INCIDENTALLY, YOU must have gathered from reading these Chips that old Brock is nothing but anti-French. He is very fond of reading French and of the men who write it, and sometimes agrees with Toynbee that Quebec is the world's one hope of a future civilization. Still, he can't help noticing, with Dr. Johnson, that the French are really very French indeed, and even the little children speak French, so they do. This was forcibly brought to mind the other day when I read a headline in a country paper from Quebec. "EXPLOSION DESTROYS THE HOME OF MR. GAGNON." (That wasn't his real name.) A little further down the page the reader is informed that among the damage and loss there happened to be Mrs. Gagnon, who was killed. "One loses oneself in conjectures about how all this ever happened," says the article. One also loses oneself slightly in conjectures about how the house got into the headline and the poor woman herself got shoved down into the odds and ends.

BUT to return to the morning meal. I said I'd not mind if certain men and women were struck dumb at breakfast. Indeed, I'd include several children of whom I'm quite fond at other meals.

Since writing that, it has occurred to me that you might suppose me a churl who wakes up cross. Which is all very penetrating of you, but it ain't so. No,

I wake up like a merry combination of Jimmy Durante and Danny Kaye. This somewhat boisterous air annoys my family, very properly, and they get nervous and irritable. Which in turn provokes me, and within half an hour I have changed to a cross between Zasu Pitts and the late Ned Sparks.

Oh yes, and then the family say, I have gone and got surly or sad on them, and the following day they positively wait for me to get surly again. And if there is anything that makes me surly, it is waiting for people who are waiting for me to get surly.

UNDoubtedly the Canadian engineers who have met them during the tour will have received something of value in the interchange of ideas and comparison of practices.

BY DAVID BROCK

NO, the only thing I really mind at breakfast, apart from certain fruits, breadstuffs, proteins and beverages, is a type of idle chatter, especially about plans for the day. And when four or five voices indulge at once in a kind of atonal part-singing, improvising variations upon a theme that was no good to begin with, I think the audience is entitled to take his plate into the living room before his patience and manners and digestion all break down together. Especially if his family is used to this sight eccentricity and accepts it. And doesn't he need to carry the bass part in the Breakfast Glee Club.

I HAVE never carried my plate out while visitors were staying with us, in the manner of Sir Richard X., who inhabited Ontario a couple of generations ago. Though I have tried, sometimes unsuccessfully, to make visitors have breakfast on a tray in bed or at least in their rooms. Sir Richard used to ORDER his guests to breakfast upstairs. When they didn't believe he was serious and came downstairs anyhow, to save him trouble, he would rise angrily from the table, plate in hand, and without one word would stalk into the kitchen and disappear. He hated the kitchen. But he couldn't get out the other door without kicking the visitors out of his way, and he refused to kick anyone with his slippers on, I suppose.

BREAKFAST was a mighty serious matter to Sir Richard. One morning a servant rushed in and gasped "The house is on fire!" Sir Richard scowled at this insubordinate attempt to ruin his meal. "I shall attend to the matter after breakfast," he said, as if addressing an idiot. As a result, the whole house burst down. But at least it couldn't burn the toast or the bacon which were inside him as he stepped majestically into the garden ahead of the flames.

Sir Richard was a Canadian, and a very prominent one. But there was something very Old World about him and his breakfast . . . a glory that has passed away. What he would make of a cheery breakfast nook I shudder to imagine.

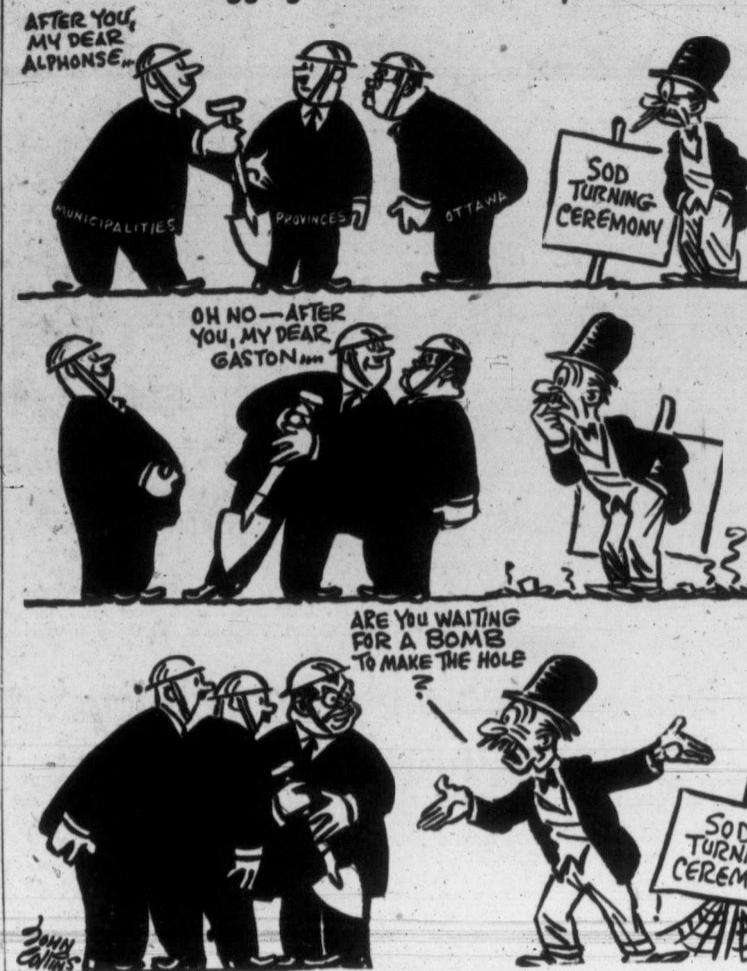

REPORTING

In two or three mainland papers I have noticed a reporter's trick of mentioning that an accident involved "a light English car," as if this caused all the trouble. They never say that other and more plentiful accidents involved heavy American cars. Why?

IF SO

THERE IS A CHAP with the unlikely name of Arland Ussher who is ready to explain elementary things like the Irish and Bernard Shaw to us. Not long ago on the BBC he got this one off: "As Wesley saved England from the French Revolution, so Shaw may have saved her from the Russian." Yes. And as Wesley did NOT so save England, neither may have Shaw so saved her. I had always thought England saved England, in spite of the worst that could be done by the Irish and those eager to explain the Irish.

Digging Our Air Raid Shelter

Our Markets

With your statement that no nation is economically self-sufficient no one will quarrel. When you go on to say that "the United States' economy, producing and consuming a large part of the world's total goods, dominates every other national economy, largely governs all prices and as it rises or falls must take the world with it" you are also on safe ground.

But when you proceed to say that "the loss of our British and European markets is not our fault" you instigate that such a state of affairs is the fault of the British and European governments. In fact you state so in the following sentence.

There, sir, is where I take issue with you. There is today, in our complex world, a tendency to over-simplify matters.

British and European inability (not disinclination) to buy more goods from smaller countries is the result of a variety of causes.

We are apt to forget that the British economy was bankrupt by two wars. Britain has no natural resources of unlimited extent. She has to import about 40 per cent of her food; she has to pay sky-rocketed prices for depreciated currency—prices largely the result of stock-piling in the U.S.A., or of competitive bidding from America.

Britain has been a trading nation for centuries and has learned, far better than most countries, that trade is a two-way affair. She would buy more from Canada if she had the dollars wherewithal to pay. If, however, she finds these dollars too hard to get, who can blame her for trading where she can?

The special lobbies at Ottawa of interested Canadian automobile manufacturers have not helped the importation of British cars. The refusal of the State of Washington to consider a bid by Ferranti of London and Lancashire electrical engineers, though that bid was less than any American bid by some $250,000, is a matter of recent interest and proves that export to dollar countries is not always a simple matter.

In conclusion, let us not adopt any self-righteous attitude, for the economic ills of the world are too complicated, too diverse, too international to be analyzed briefly in a paragraph or two.

H. CUMBERBIRTH.

New Role

The American-made Japanese peace treaty, recently decided at San Francisco, brings out in stark reality the role the U.S.A. is now called upon to assume: for whereas Great Britain's very existence depended upon keeping the balance of power in Europe, America's future is vitally dependent upon maintaining the balance of power on a global basis.

This unenviable responsibility calls for the highest standard of diplomatic integrity, which is on a much higher plane than the revelations exposed by the recent Kefauver crime commission.

Apropos by the late President Woodrow Wilson opined that "America is now sauntering through her resources and through the mazes of her policies with easy nonchalance; but presently there will come a time when she will be surprised to find herself grown old—a country crowded, strained, perplexed—when she will be obliged to pull herself together, adopt a new regimen of life, husband her resources, concentrate her strength, steady her methods, sober her mien, restrict her vagaries, trust her best, not her average members. That will be the time of change."

Whether America is stepping off on the right foot by ignoring the wishes of nearly 1,200,000 underprivileged people, time alone will tell.

As Our Readers See It

ONLY THREE

Regarding the Esquimalt by-election, it must be obvious to most people that there are only three candidates that will stand a chance of being elected—namely the Coalition, the C.C.F. or the independent who is supported by Mr. Bennett.

I think the other two candidates would show good judgment if they would withdraw and avoid wasting ballots or splitting the vote.

I believe the main issue or grievance will be the increase in the hospital insurance premium and also whether the people of Esquimalt want a pro-capital or pro-labor or a middle of the road policy such as Mr. Bennett advocates.

TOM CLARK.
Royal Oak.

WAGE DEMANDS

I think it is a decidedly ominous portent when we read that the Trades and Labor Congress is urging its unions to demand wage increases "to compensate for the exorbitant increase in the cost of living." Well, who is going to pay these increases? The employer and merchant, of course. And who pays these worthy citizens? The taxpayer, of course—a vicious circle. In the face of such proposed increase in wages it simply does not make sense to suppose that living costs will remain at the present level, which is their stated objective.

Current history teaches that such demands mean strikes, and strikes inevitably result in economic hardship and disruption in all departments of our national life, particularly for those advanced in age and the white-collar class.

The report states that the membership of these unions totals half a million—a dominating power—which in the hands of certain leaders, could paralyze the nation overnight and provide Russia with the invasion opportunity she seeks. One, Jack Histon, Toronto machinist,

This department is to be commended for their careful and timely efforts in this survey which deals with the very foundations of the public health and welfare. The report shows that many B.C. families are spending too much money on candy, cakes and prepared foods and not enough on simple, wholesome, body-building foods with the proper vitamin contents.

Slaying Brings Brother To Trial

Preliminary hearing on the murder charge against Gordon Jackson, 26, which arose from the gunshot death of his brother Percy, 22, on Sept. 1, has been set for Oct. 3, at 11 a.m., at Nanaimo. R.C.M.P. headquarters here reported.

Shooting occurred at the Atwater Logging Camp on Quatsino Sound. Percy Jackson died en route to hospital in Port Alice by boat.

Police said that Murray Reynolds, K.C., will act for the Crown at the hearing.

HUNT FOR MISSING CPA PLANE RESUMED

Object Reported Between Seward And Anchorage; Ground Party Out

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (BUP)—A three-man U.S. Air Force ground party set out today to determine if an object sighted in the Chugach Mountains between Anchorage and Seward, Alaska, might be the wreckage of a Canadian Pacific Airline missing nearly two months with 38 persons aboard.

The report of wreckage sighted came from a man identified only as "Mr. Carey," air force officers said last night. The man said he sighted an object he believed was the wreckage of a DC-3 or DC-4 type aircraft 10 miles southwest of the Mason-Oberg road camp, 21 miles north of Seward, on the Kenai peninsula.

"Carey," told officers he was "positive" the object he saw was a crashed plane. He said he looked at it through field glasses, but bad weather prevented him from sighting it from the air when he flew over the area. He said it was at the 4,000-foot level in the rugged mountains.

The weather bureau said low visibility would plague the region for the next 36 hours. The three-man ground party, headed by Lieut. Richard Swan, carried radios and outdoor equipment. The crew planned to drop one man off at the road camp with a radio, the other two would then hike to the scene of the reported wreckage.

Officers said they had no reports of either a DC-3 or DC-4 type plane ever having crashed in that area.

The site of the reported wreckage is 475 miles north-northwest of where the DC-4 Canadian airliner last reported its position July 21. Search had centred in the Yukatuk area of the Alaskan panhandle.

Aboard the missing plane, the first to go down in a series of 15 Alaskan air accidents that since have left 98 persons dead or missing, were 32 passengers and six crew members, including two women.

All of the crew were from Vancouver, B.C. The passengers were officers and men of the U.S. air force and army, and two Canadian naval ratings.

The plane was en route from Vancouver to Tokyo, via Anchorage, when it disappeared.

"Now why didn't I learn that long ago!"

Imagine, I've been married four years and all that time I've thought my baking was as good as could be. It was good too. But nothing like the cakes and pastries I've been making since I learned the modern way. You see, I discovered that it takes a specially finely sifted flour made from the softest kinds of wheat to make perfect cakes and pastry. Well, it certainly made the family sit up and ask for more when I started baking with Monarch Cake and Pastry Flour. So delightfully tender and a wonderful texture. But after all . . . it just stands to reason that you can bake better cakes and pastries with a flour made specially for non-yeast baking."

Ike Wants Presidential Bid, Newsman Reports

Gen. Eisenhower Said Ready To Make Frank Statement Of His Availability

WASHINGTON (UP)—Roscoe Drummond has returned from Paris with word that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower wants the Republican presidential nomination and will work to get it.

Drummond is one of the best reporters in town. He is just back from two years as director of European information for the economic co-operation administration.

This week he resumed his post as chief Washington correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor. Drummond wrote the general would not be coy. He not only will accept the nomination but plans to make a frank statement of his availability for the Republican nomination well in advance of the nominating convention.

Water Fluorination Checks Decay But City Dentists Not Enthused

Fluorination of the city's water supply to aid in prevention of dental decay, may not go beyond the talking stage for another five years.

Until fluorination is endorsed, by the National Research Council, the B.C. Dental Association will not take a lead in the matter, according to Dr. T. H. Johns, editor of the association bulletin.

"In the considered opinion of the association, any such move on our part would be a little premature."

"We are not too sure results are in keeping with the cost," said Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer.

He said it had been estimated initial installation of equipment would be $3,000 and cost of maintenance, supply of chemical and staff at 5 to 15 cents per capita.

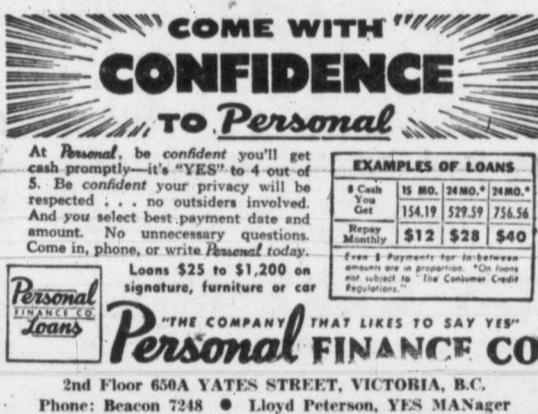

He added, however, the department would be willing to discuss fluorination with dental authorities or other interested parties.

WAIT FOR LEAD

Also willing to discuss, but in no position to start the ball rolling, is the Greater Victoria Water District, according to Ralph Davis, chief water commissioner.

Ottawa released recently a report of a six-year test. In Brantford, Ont., water was artificially fluorinated. At Stratford, the water contains a natural fluorine. Sarnia was left without fluorine as a basis for the test.

Children of Stratford showed less tooth decay than in either of the other two cities. In Brantford the situation showed improvement since 1948 but at Sarnia, decay increased.

Iceland's NATO Delegate Says Little, Listens Well

Smallest Of Pact Powers Holds Great Strategic Importance To Other Members

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—The delegate saying the least and listening the most at the North Atlantic Council meetings here is a quiet, grey-haired man whose homeland might be considered a plum to Russian military aggression.

Bjarni Benediksson, Iceland's against the Atlantic community.

With this fear hovering over it, Iceland has become one of the staunchest of the Atlantic Pact's members, though because of its size and strength, it can offer little in the way of men and materials and must call on other members for defense support.

Isolated by the Atlantic, and with a population of only 140,000—about 10 per cent of Canada's—Iceland could fall easy prey to any Communist design to come down from the north and grab it as a base of operations.

'Well, That's The Way She Goes'

No tears were shed by Shamrock coach Arnold Ferguson last night as the team landed at Pat Bay airport. The Rocks had just lost the deciding game of the Intercity Lacrosse League playoffs to the inspired Vancouver Combiners, but the large crowd of fans who welcomed the club back on their arrival had nothing but cheers for the tired gladiators. The Rocks, disappointed but not bitter, gave full praise to the Combiners and began planning for next year. That is what Ferguson is telling Dick Batey of CJVI, while surrounded by part of the host of well-wishers. The big smile on the right belongs to Len Scott of Rocks.

SENATOR MISINFORMED

Agreement Violation Charge Meets Denial

QUEBEC (CP)—A pre-season hockey tempest about hockey agreements was stirred up last night by Hon. Gerald Martineau, member of the Quebec Provincial Legislative Council.

Mr. Martineau, former president of the Quebec Aces, in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, threatened to ask the Quebec government to apply a 1939 law regulating sports "if hockey magnates do not recognize the freedom of amateurs to play with clubs of their choice."

He said because of an agreement between the National Hockey League and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association any player whose name was on a negotiation list for an N.H.L. team had to sign with that team

Turpin Seeded Fourth In N.B.A. List

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson Wednesday became the first boxer in 31 years to lose and regain his title in between the quarterly ratings of the National Boxing League.

In releasing its third-quarter ratings, the N.B.A. said the Harlem dandy made the unique record by dropping his middle-weight crown to Britain's Randy Turpin in July and winning it back in September.

It was the first time since 1920, the inception of N.B.A. ratings, that a champion lost and regained a title within the period covered by the ratings.

Turpin was listed as the third outstanding boxer in the middle-weight division, preceded by Dave Sands, Australia, and Laurent Dauthuille, France.

Canucks Get Popein

VANCOUVER (CP)—Larry Popein, rookie of the year in the Western Canada Hockey League last year, will try out with the Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast League next week.

COP PLAYOFF SERIES

Suds Pick Up $10,000 With Governor's Cup

They pulled down the blinds in the Pacific Coast League today. The 1951 season was over and Seattle, with first-year manager Rogers Hornsby at the helm, had won both the pennant and the playoffs.

Pitcher Paul Calvert, who worked less than an inning, got credit for the win, although great Skinny Brown worked the final three scoreless frames.

For each, the Rainiers got a check amounting to $10,000. The stars, second in the final standings and second in the playoffs, got $5,000 for their latter showing.

It was in true championship style that the Rainiers won the Governor's Cup last night. They spotted Hollywood a two-run lead, and fought back with the meat of a 15-hit attack to overrun the Stars.

Pitcher Paul Calvert, who worked less than an inning, got credit for the win, although great Skinny Brown worked the final three scoreless frames.

Hollywood 6, Rainiers 3

Grisson Calvert (6), Brown (7) and Bratt Lindell Madsen (7). Lombardi (8), Hood (9) and Sandbeck.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Danny Nardico, 174, Tampa, Fla., out-pointed George Kaplan, 192, Brooklyn (10).

Baseball To Face Further Investigation

WASHINGTON (UP)—Baseball players are expected to be among the witnesses called by the house baseball investigation when it resumes its hearings on Oct. 15, or two days after the house adjourns—whichever day comes later.

A spokesman for the group, a subcommittee of the house monopoly investigating committee, said a list of the witnesses will be announced later.

Several of the players spoke briefly over radio station CJVI, while others sadly told the story of the game itself to relatives and friends.

There were few post-mortems of consequence, however, as those present knew that discretion was the better part of valor on such an occasion.

As was the case last year, the event was organized by radio station CJVI, with Dick Batey acting as emcee.

After the reception broke up, the Irish adjourned to a well-known restaurant on Flisgar Street and almost in silent obsequity partook of the victuals that were proffered. Then strolled silently away into the dawn to rest their weary frames.

The subcommittee is trying to decide whether baseball is a monopoly and, if so, whether it should be exempt from anti-trust laws. It also will go into the questions of organized baseball's "territorial rights" systems which allows minor league teams some control of big-league radio broadcasts in their territory.

City May See Mann Cup Tilt

There is a strong possibility that at least one game of the best-of-seven Mann Cup lacrosse finals will be played in Victoria. This possibility was being decided upon at a meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse Association and Intercity Lacrosse League in Vancouver which was still in session early this morning.

One of the terms of the pact, authorized by the C.A.A., was that the Q.S.H.L. would respect the N.H.L.'s player lists and all players on those lists would have to sign a standard player contract with the N.H.L. club before playing with the Q.S.H.L.

Mr. Martineau has not been supplied with correct information about this agreement. We aren't forcing anything on the league."

JANIRO CLIPPED NEAR END

Graziano Steals Shot At Robinson's Crown

DETROIT (AP)—Rocky Graziano, whose blasting comeback in the last 20 seconds stunned Tony Janiro last night and gained Rocky a technical knockout, wants to move into the next business—a middleweight title fight with champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

This may be early next year.

Meanwhile the "We wuz robbed" cry came from Janiro and Frank Jacobs, his manager.

Until Rocky's crashing lefts and rights suddenly sprawled Tony on the canvas with the fight conclusion.

Graziano, 160 pounds to Tony's 154, exploded a left to Tony's face with 20 seconds left. Tony tried to back away but roundhouse Rocky rained rights and lefts at him.

Tony slid from rope to rope as he tried to cover up and get away. Rocky punched and half-shoved Tony to the canvas.

Janiro appeared a winner in a wide-open slugfest. Referee Lou Handler halted the fight just as Janiro hit the floor.

Janiro hopped right to his feet and joined manager Frankie Jacobs in protesting Handler's decision.

"Bob" Moss, one of the best goalkeepers in the league last year, will be back between the posts when the team opens its season. Other players returning from last year's club are Jim Davison, Andy Anderson, Tommy Fallon, Cliff Robbins, Alex McCormick, Ken Griffin and Dave Main.

Davison, high scorer for the V. and D. League two seasons ago, will be used on either of the wing positions. Robbins will use his Coast League experience in a utility spot while Griffin is expected to be a capable centre-half.

The inside left position is practically conceded to Anderson, an ex-Victoria United player. Menally, 19, who had a 5-3, 6-3 and 5-2 edge by rounds of the official scorecards—evidently would have won by decision if the fight had gone 14 more seconds to the conclusion.

Over the fireplace in Craigdarroch Castle's entrance hall is a legend. It says "Welcome Ever Smiles and Farewell Goes Out Sighing." The Greater Victoria School Board staff working in the building could suggest a paraphrase. It would cover tourists who come in smiling and staff members who start sighing as they try to concentrate on the jobs at hand.

They're probably sighing a little more this week as they think about a suggestion to convert the old building more fully into a tourist attraction, with the addition of period pieces to the vacant rooms. If you asked them about it, they'd answer you with a question. "What's vacant rooms?" There is some space unused in the higher reaches of the castle, and there may be a bit down in the basement. But the quarters are pretty well occupied.

MAKING CRAIGDARROCH into a museum is an appealing suggestion. And it wouldn't inconvenience those who suggest it one little bit. But officials and employees of the school board, patient as they are, will be excused if they take a slightly vengeful attitude. As it is, the building is a tourist attraction. Visitors drop in throughout the summer months and gaze around. The board employees manage to get on with their work, though it sometimes isn't too easy.

Now if the proposers of the museum idea would just undertake the financing and construction of another Greater Victoria School Board headquarters, they might find some enthusiasm up at Craigdarroch. That's a detail that appears to have been overlooked. Not that it couldn't be attended to. Vancouver opened a new school board centre a while ago and it cost only about a million dollars. Greater Victoria wouldn't need one so big.

NO ONE'S GOING to say that the castle isn't a tourist attraction. Visitors coming in from the sea can pick out its baronial features long before they dock. From any number of points in the city, it's a landmark. There's romance woven into the structure and a fair amount of local history.

Maybe it was the fulfillment of the promise Robert Dunsmuir made to his prospective bride—a castle if she would marry him. Robert ever made that promise. Certainly in its exterior and on the lower floors it meets specifications, though the standard of the decorations goes down as you go up.

Right now, on the other hand, it's serving as useful a purpose as it has served in the 60-odd years of its existence. According to some research students, Mrs. Dunsmuir moved into residence in 1889, the year her husband died, and lived there until 1908. Then, report has it, the Westholme Lumber Co. won it in a raffle and a member of the firm occupied it until 1915, when the company ran into financial shuffles and the Bank of Montreal took it over.

FROM 1919 TO 1921 it served as a Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment hospital and was rented to the Victoria School Board in the latter year to house Victoria College.

It continued as college until 1946, when the city's senior educational plant moved out to Richmond Road to share quarters with the Normal School, and since 1947 it's been Greater Victoria School Board headquarters.

Those are the dates that a researcher has tabulated. They don't tell the story of Craigdarroch—it's human drama as a private residence, its traditions as a college, housing the young dreams and romance of a changing student body, the hopes and the fears of patients during its hospital use, the tangled skeins of lives that have been interwoven under its steeply pitched slate, the aura of old ivy which once surrounded it.

But those are matters on which a tourist's imagination may be stimulated as easily from the outside looking in.

No Agreement— No Overtime; —Boilermakers

Until they have an agreement which is satisfactory to them, boilermakers employed in Victoria's two main shipyards will work no overtime.

Formal notice of this was served on Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows Limited Wednesday by the Victoria Shipyard Workers' Union, which bargains for the boilermakers.

The union's no-overtime plan is the only new development in the long-standing dispute. There is still no indication as to the union's plans about strike action.

John Martin, union representative at the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, told the council Wednesday night:

"We are still open to negotiation with the employers."

No negotiations are in progress, however, and no meetings are scheduled.

NEED ROBERT HOUSE IN DEFENSE SCHEME

St. John Ambulance Asks City's Terms For Lease As Central Headquarters

St. John Ambulance Association today asked the city finance committee on what terms it might lease Prince Robert House for a headquarters, owing to stepped up civil defense activities.

Mrs. Emily Harwood, district officer for Vancouver Island advised that present headquarters were too small in view of the importance of civil defense activities, and the necessity for training increased numbers.

Owing to the amount of money which renovation would entail, that the organization look the premises over before being heard by the committee on any definite proposal.

Finance committee recommended

"The question is, what is the anticipated future of Prince Robert House," said City Manager Cecil Wyatt, who advised that other organizations had also made representations with regard to use of the building.

"It is not decided yet," replied Ald. J. D. Hunter, chairman.

Ald. Waldo Skillings recommended the building be demolished and the property used for off-street parking.

"We'll not sell it now," he remarked.

"We should have sold it before," said Ald. Waldo Skillings, who felt the city was "duty bound" to allow her use of the extra space, if it was not being utilized.

Mrs. Green said she had hopes of operating once a month during the winter. Ald. Mulliner felt her idea was a good one and should be expanded on the grounds that needy people could do with the food twice weekly, instead of twice monthly.

Payment of $413 in taxes to Saanich on the Gordon Head Airpark, were recommended at finance committee meeting today. The city owns the property.

Engineers' Role Vital In Defense, Says Stein

Municipal engineers from Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland were told here today they will play a vital role in the whole civil defense field," by Maj. Gen. C. R. Stein, provincial civil defense co-ordinator, speaking before the ninth annual session of the B.C. engineering society's municipal engineering division.

Gen. Stein addressed the group of 135 engineers in the lower lounge of the Empress Hotel, scene of the three-day confab. Earlier, Reeve P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay, welcomed the engineers.

"All engineer services will be working at top pressure and full capacity for a long time after any disaster strikes the community," Gen. Stein declared.

STUDY ASKED

"Only thus can we hope to ensure that, following a major disaster, a community will be able to recover from the blow instead of being knocked down and out."

The speaker emphasized that engineers should make a rough study of their communities to assist in meeting emergencies. He said a knowledge of population densities, building types, fire zoning and fire susceptibility, key installations and utilities and other facts would be useful.

COMPLICATED PROBLEM

Gen. Stein admitted the vast civilian defense machinery is as complicated as any problem confronting mankind today with less guidance than its important warrants." Particularly, he stressed the number of "known factors" in the program.

F. G. deWolf, Vernon city engineer, discussed "Sanitary and Storm Water Sewers" in a talk following the address of Gen. Stein.

New College Facilities Promised By Principal

Better college facilities were promised by Principal John Ewing to some 295 students who attended this morning the opening of Victoria College.

Dr. Ewing said the new building will be used as a library and for administration purposes would be ready some time early next year. A playground had also been established a few steps away from the college, he said.

The principal also reminded his young audience that the reputation of Victoria College depended on them. "You are Victoria College," he said. "My advice to you is to put your shoulders to the wheel and show what you can do."

Students were urged by J. B. Clearhuse, K.C., chairman of the college council, to choose their respective careers early as possible and to continue on to university.

"So many people give up going to college after a year or two," he said, "You will find it worth your while if you go on to university and take up a profession."

An enclosure of wooden louvers to prevent spray from the arena spray pond seeping into the ground and possibly contributing to lifting of the arena floor, was approved by finance committee today.

A recommendation will go to City Council Tuesday requesting the consulting engineer to prepare specifications both for the louvers and a fence around the pond. Estimated cost of both jobs is $2,000.

Engineers felt lifting of the floor might be partly attributed to the seepage from wind-blown spray.

Penny Says She Is A Poet— But You'd Never Know It!

By PENNY SAVER

One, two,
Buckle my shoe.
Three, four,
Shine some more!
No, I haven't reverted to my kindergartner days. This little rhyme, with a few changes just happened to flash across my mind and it tied in with what I found today.

All of a sudden I've become to all the new shoe cleaners and conditioners that have been introduced recently.

It appears that I've been blinding going to the cleaner picking up a tin of polish, looking neither to left nor right, and walking away, quite satisfied with my purchase.

I just happened to start at the top of the counter today and worked down. What I didn't find, is not worth mentioning.

With an 18-cent bottle you can dye your shoes, if they are smooth leather. Just think what a help it would be if you could just retouch the worn spots.

Another type of dye in a 35-cent bottle comes in all colors that shoes have ever blossomed forth in. This color coat has been used with success on hats and is said to make leather soft and smooth again.

Gold shoe coloring is also popular. The directions tell you to stuff the toes of the shoes with paper to remove the creases, then clean them thoroughly with ammonia or soda in warm water, dry, and apply with brush. Makes old shoes like new and is splendid for changing color of leather purses, covers, belts, and so many other things I just can't list them.

If you are not fussy about applying the cleaner and also polishing your shoes, or if it is the object, you can buy a liquid self-polishing wax for brown or black smooth leather for 15 pennies.

Neutral cleaner to polish shoes any color is 20 cents a tin. It is waterproof and really gives a shine.

For the same price you can buy your cleaners for brown, black or red shoes.

Suede shoes begin to look dowdy very quickly unless you are particularly careful with them. With a touch of suede dressing you can bring them back to their sleek newness. First remove the surface dust, apply dressing, and rub off the nap. Let them dry, then give the shoes a good brush. By applying this dressing you will not harm any leather it may come in contact with.

Try These Speedy Ways Of Relieving Day's Fatigue

We have all had the experience of finishing a busy day and rushing the routine depends on how much time you have, but even a ten-minute rest and complete relaxation, can do wonders. Go into a room alone and lie down. Put your feet higher than your head, or at least place pillows under your knees. Do not use a pillow under your head. Place icy, wet, cotton pads over your eyes. Let go in every muscle and in every worry. A half hour would be wonderful, but ten minutes will help, if you relax.

Fatigue usually hits folks in one of two spots: the back of the neck or the feet. If your neck aches take a few minutes to do the following exercises. Drop the head backward. Raise the head and touch the chin to the chest. Repeat several times. Another: Make circles with the head, moving first in one direction and then the other.

Also massage the back of your neck with your hands, using one hand first and then the other, or both, kneading the flesh between the heel of the hand and the fingers. After this place a hot water bottle underneath your neck while you rest with the pads over your eyes.

If your fatigue centres in the feet do this: Lie down on a bed and grip hard with the toes as though you were trying to pick something up with them. Relax. Repeat a number of times. Place the feet in hot water for a few minutes. Remove and dry them. Now massage your feet, digging in with your fingers over the bottoms. Use cold cream for this massage. Wash the cream off, dash the feet with cold water, dry and apply a powder.

If you have practically no time in between work and another engagement, throw yourself across the bed for at least five minutes and then get up and think how much fun you are going to have! Often just a bath and change of clothes will refresh you.

Traditional Satin Worn By Bride

A gown of traditional ivory satin was worn by Iris Faye Cook, when she exchanged marriage vows with Leuan V. Jones, at a recent ceremony in St. Barnabas' Church, Rev. E. Munro officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cook, Saskatoon, and the groom is the son of W. R. Jones, Blanshard Street, and the late Mrs. Jones.

D. McLellan gave his niece in marriage.

The rich satin gown was styled with a bouffant skirt in train and her veil of illusion net fell gracefully from a gold sequin coronet. The bride wore pearl earrings and necklace, gift of the groom. She complemented her gown with a bouquet of pink and cream roses.

Misses Iris Jones, sister of the groom, and J. Baker, attendants, wore identical gowns in pastel tones of taffeta. They chose matching handbags and mitts and carried bouquets of gladioli and carnations.

R. Cotttingham was best man and ushers were L. Griffiths and D. McLellan.

Toasting the bride at the reception following the ceremony was proposed by D. McLellan. Assisting the bridal couple in receiving guests were Mrs. Jones, mother of the groom; Mrs. D. McLellan and Mrs. B. Hutchinson, aunts of the bride. A wire of congratulations from the groom's aunt and cousin in London was read.

For a honeymoon in Seattle and on the mainland, the bride chose a blue three-piece suit with wine velvet accessories and a corsage of roses.

Tea, Cookies, Posters Add Light Touch To Open House

By ELIZABETH FORBES

There is something about an invitation to "come and bring your friends" that creates a happy atmosphere right from the minute it is received.

That was the way it was at Spencerhouse yesterday afternoon and evening when hundreds of Victorians availed themselves of the "open house" invitation to view volunteer agencies and learn of their activities.

There was an intelligent and sincere interest in every department of this modern welfare unit. Visitors asked questions

Everyone Takes A Hand

Of interest to everyone were the posters and placards in the halls and various offices.

A large poster, cleverly designed, on an easel in the main hall, set forth requirements needed in a social service worker.

It was the word of a ward of that department.

In a hallway leading to welfare offices was a series of posters showing in caricature style, various reasons for breaking up of homes, family discord, financial worries, illness, desertion, old age, alcoholism, youth problems.

"There's a mystery about those posters," said Miss Mildred Wright, director of family and children's service.

"We don't know the artist. They were found under a pile of stuff in the old building, when we were moving. And they were so good—we had to put them up."

Ask a social worker!"

Teacher Finds A Mistake

In another office a series of wall charts showed the daily work of the social welfare department, some of the problems and various means of meeting those problems.

Small groups gathered to hear the young woman in charge explain those charts. In one was a

Old Bibles To Be Shown

Plans were made at a meeting of Women's Missionary Society, Metropolitan United Church, for a display of old and treasured Bibles, to be held on Oct. 15.

One Bible, dated 1702, has already been offered for the display and others are being tabulated.

There will be a musical program and afterward tea will be served.

Mrs. E. R. Bewell presided and with Mrs. W. H. Munry, sang a duet, accompanied by Mrs. H. Garmon.

Posing as a radio announcer, Mrs. Munry introduced secretaries who gave reports of the year's work in a novel manner.

Snoozes, Bruises As Car Intrudes

While Mrs. Eileen Learoyd, 236 Gorge Road, was having a snooze on the grass Wednesday evening, a car proceeding along the track at the rear of her property ran over her legs. Her only injuries were bruises.

The car was driven by James I. Mann, 3030 Washington Avenue, and the track leads to the rear of his home. A bush apparently prevented Mann from seeing the woman's blanket-covered legs.

SKEENA SILVER MINES LIMITED, N.P.L.

Map showing location of the three groups of mineral claims of Skeena Silver Mines Limited, N.P.L., in relation to the properties owned and controlled by Western Uranium Cobalt Mine Limited, which will place two mills in operation in October, 1951. Skeena Silver's development program is now under way.

NEW MINING OPERATION IN PROVEN HAZELTON AREA

Holdings of Skeena Silver Mines Limited, N.P.L., as shown upon the above map, are most fortunately located in relation to a proven new operation which will place two new mills in production within about 30 days, namely Western Uranium Cobalt Mines Limited.

While not requiring, nor wishing, to trade upon another's big success, nevertheless shares of Skeena Silver Mines Limited, just entering the development stage, provide an extra speculative appeal because of the fact that the company's three groups are so located.

The entire first issue of 500,000 shares at 35c per share has been considerably oversubscribed, and has been allotted to approximately 200 new shareholders. Shares may now be secured at the prevailing unlisted market, or over-the-counter, price.

Govt. Must Slash Some Spending To Curb Inflation, Says Mrs. Walton

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., president of the 13,000-member Canadian Association of Consumers, said today that if the government is going to curb inflation, it must first slash some of its own unjustified spending.

Dependence by the government on "still more burdensome taxation on essentials" alone will not provide the cure. Mrs. Walton said in her presidential speech prepared for delivery before the association's board of directors.

Her speech initiated a two-day discussion of consumer problems, particularly the cost of living.

Resolutions were expected to follow from provincial delegations calling for a new campaign to hold the price line and get the government to control margins of profit on consumer goods.

Affiliated with the association is a group of national women's associations, representing more than 100,000 Canadians, and including such groups as the Y.W.C.A., the Salvation Army of Canada, Business and Professional Women's clubs and the National Council of Women.

"The sharp, mounting cost of living," said Mrs. Walton, "has made inroads into the standard of living of many Canadians..."

Fred Kroeger, 65, of 645 Belmont Street, was taken to Jubilee Hospital by city policemen Harry Hoshall and Reginald Church Wednesday afternoon after he suffered a broken leg. Police said a heavy piece of water pipe fell off a half-deck truck and struck Kroeger in the leg.

David Kills Goliath

The legendary slaying of the Philistine giant Goliath by the shepherd boy David is faithfully recreated in Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor Biblical epic "David and Bathsheba," the Daryl F. Zanuck production starting tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre. Filmed on the Arizona desert by Director Henry King, "David and Bathsheba," which co-stars Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward in the title roles, utilized a cast of thousands to authentically reproduce the historic battle between the Philistines and Israelites. Raymond Massey, Kieron Moore, Dennis Hoey, John Sutton, Jayne Meadows and James Robertson Justice support the stars at the head of a large cast.

Will Recruit 5,000 Girls For Canada Active Army

OTTAWA (BUP)—The army will start recruiting 5,000 women for active service before next summer, it was learned today.

The women will be attached to the regular army and employed in a wide variety of trades ranging from truck driving to accounting, army sources said.

The stepped-up demand for Canadian troops for home defense and overseas duties resulted in the decision to recruit women for the active army.

Army officers said that they could see "no point in keeping men at work in many jobs which women can do—and already have done—very well."

Co-Operative Listings Bring Sales Of $500,000

Over half a million dollars of real estate has been sold in Vancouver through the Co-operative Listing Bureau of the Vancouver Real Estate Board, since co-operative listings were introduced last January.

J. A. Roberts, chairman of the Vancouver Bureau, told members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria that the success which had attended Vancouver efforts were overshadowed by what had happened in Calgary, where in six months co-operative listing had made such strides that the membership fee had been raised to $1,000.

Mr. Roberts explained that houses listed co-operatively had a much better chance of selling than those listed individually. The commission was divided between the company making the listing and the company actually making the sale. There was also a small percentage for the bureau.

'Old Salty' Sundown Will Wing In $100 On The Side

By DON INGHAM

"Sundown," a handsome long-distance racing pigeon owned by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Blackstock, 1523 Derby Road, will do his best for Victoria's Community Chest.

Starter in a race planned between Victoria and New Westminster Oct. 1, with $100 to be paid by the losing city to the inner's Community Chest, Sundown was given a pep talk Wednesday by Inez McLeod, pretty Miss Community Chest.

"Do you think the New Westminster pigeons will pick up your challenge, Sundown?" he was asked.

"Dunno," he said. "It'll cost them if they do."

"Will you win, Sundown?"

"Gonna try hard," he said. "O' course I'm molting now, but so are they. This time o' year the prevailing wind blows from here toward N.W., and that means a head wind for me

Ministers In Ottawa Thresh Out Dam Plan

Compensation for British Columbia if the Libby Dam in Montana is constructed is being thrashed out in Ottawa by Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney and Attorney-General Gordon Wismere.

The Cabinet ministers are appearing before the International Joint Commission which is expected to render a decision on the dam in the near future. The commission is considering all evidence and Mr. Kenney and Mr. Wismere are presenting B.C.'s case.

Big issue under discussion is a 40-mile backwater into Canada on the Kootenay River which the dam will cause. Estimated cost of the dam is $421,000,000.

To compensate for the big backwater, it is expected B.C. will want some agreement in connection with power generated by the project.

After three years of survey and study technical details have been settled.

Federal governments of the United States and Canada, as well as the B.C. government, must give approval before the dam is started. The dam will have a great effect on the storage and hydro-electric potential on the Canadian side of the border.
